The Wonderful Progress Made With The Past Few Years.

Diseases That Our Mothers Thought Incurable Now Cured by Paine's Celery Compound.

It is difficult to overestimate the importance of recent advances in medicine and surgery

In surgery there is the application of the X ray in determining complicated fractures

In medicine there is the serum treatment for germ diseases, and more important still, the extended use of Paine's celery compound in the treatment of the many diseases that arise from a faulty or impaired nervous system

This class of ailments is responsible for more suffering and earlier death than all others and that is why so much public prominence was given to Paine's celery compound when it was discovery was first announced by Prof Phelps of Dartmouth College

Ancient miracles were contrary to natural laws whereas the remarkable power of Paine's celery compound to make people well comes from a better understanding of the natural causes of disease

That wonderful set of nerves known as the vagus, the nervous system that knits every part of the body together and harmonizes all its functions today as never before Many persons are not aware that any such nerves exist they do not know that nerves go to every part of the body that every organ or part does not instantly know of the close ties of this system by its familiarly illustrated by headaches, indigestion, rheumatism neuralgia etc About every case of sleeplessness nervousness and dyspepsia is a sympathetic response induced by brain nerves starved or stunted by the lowering of the general health

People who think to get rid of these troubles by some medicine that disregards the general health of the body are on the wrong track In getting such diseases as neuralgia and rheumatism out of the system Paine's celery compound proceeds at once to restore a normal appetite and regulate the nerves as the foundation for building up the health and vigor.

It regulates the bowels without delay and sets to it that the poisonous humors that are bursting through the skin in wretched eruptions or lingering blotches on the face are purged out of the system Paine's celery compound proceeds at once to restore a normal appetite and regulate the nerves as the foundation for building up the health and vigor.

There is no doubt now why that Paine's celery compound cures rheumatism neuralgia nervousness sleeplessness and all forms of blood diseases such as eczema salt rheum and the complexion is now assured by this really wonderful remedy

If the reader of this is not in perfect health let him or her try a full bottle of Paine's celery compound and delay no longer.

A LONG DISCUSSION

Over the Pacific Railroads Funding Bill.

The House Devoted Nearly the Entire Day To The Subject.

No Quorum Present in Evening to Consider Pension Bills.

Washington Jan 8 In the House today upon the request of Mr Turner (Dem Ga) a resolution was agreed to instructing the Attorney General to send to his last annual report full copies of all correspondence and telegrams between the department and public officers and all persons relative to the great railroad strike in Chicago in 1894 and the action of the government in suppressing the same The House then went into committee of the whole to further consider the Pacific roads funding bill

Mr Patterson (Dem Tenn) opened the day's proceedings in a brief speech supporting the bill He said he did not subscribe to the theory of the sentimental side of the controversy that the builders of these roads were great public benefactors opening up a vast territory to the growth of the improvement and prosperity of the nation There was another side which might be called the practical side, that held these men up to scorn as public robbers He did not subscribe to that view either

PERFORMS IN CUBA

Formulated by Spain and to be Put Into Effect

As Soon as Important Provinces are Pacified and Crops are Assured.

Weyler in Favor Again in Spain--He is Satisfied With Himself.

New York Jan 8 A morning paper today contained what purported to be terms of peace offered to the Spanish by the Cuban General Gomez When the delegation to this city was called to the article he denounced it as a base fabrication and declared that Gomez had no power to make such an offer

An article in the constitution of the Cuban government he declared expressly stipulated that no negotiations could be opened with Spain that did not provide for complete independence The president and legislative body of Cuba were the only ones empowered to negotiate with Spain

De Castillo said Cuba's prospects were never more promising and declared that stories of dissatisfaction in Cuban ranks were spurious lies

Trial of Somoillan

Havana Jan 8 The trial of Julio Somoillan an American citizen on the charge of conspiring against the Spanish government in Cuba is drawing to a close The charge is that he was agent here of the Cuba Junta and was leaning with others to overthrow the Spanish authority in Cuba

The court adjourned until to morrow

A delegation waited upon Gen Weyler today to congratulate him upon his conduct of the campaign In answering Weyler said he ignored the attacks made upon him by certain newspapers in Madrid These attacks were due to an insufferable impatience He was satisfied that in Pinar Del Rio had given better results than was expected not only in routing the insurgent rebels but in the small losses sustained by the army

He said Gomez the rebel leader, would come to the province of Havana Should he do so he would urely be hindered Weyler said he attached no importance to the rumors that he was to be deprived of the command in Cuba

In conclusion he recommended patience and prudence

Weyler Regains Favor

London Jan 8 The Standard's Madrid correspondent telegraphs that despite the criticisms of the press Gen Weyler has recently regained favor in official circles owing to the demonstrations in his favor by the loyalists in Havana

His correspondent adds the government had formulated decrees granting reforms which will be put into effect as soon as Weyler announces the pacification of the provinces of Havana and Matanzas and the security of crops in half the island

It is said reforms and the reforms will be put in the island with the sanction of the director of a council of administration of everything connected with the navy justice taxation and trade will be retained by Spain

The government expects the scheme will conciliate a majority of the Cubans and thus save the rebellion with the United States

The Herald says an instance of the destitution and sickness among the soldiers in Cuba says a total of 1000 men sent here in November numbered only 400 at the end of that month

THE BUSINESS REVIEW.

New Year Begins With Advantage of Unsound Concerns Swept Away.

New York Jan 8 R G Dunn & Co weekly review of trade will say The year 1896 begins with one clear advantage the past year has swept out of the way a number of unsound concerns which in any time of activity would have been dangerous to business Of the 15,456 commercial and business failures in 1896 with liabilities of $ 9 806 709 the share represented only 1 in 154 in previous years, or the violent commercial storms in 1890 or the first half of 1893 while thousands more were related from the fury of the panic tornado of last fall

Business failures amounting to $ 6 708 406 during the year averaged $ 6 1 6 per cent large than 1890 Commercial failures amount to 92.6-00 $14 a little over $1 000 000 have been added by the last day of the year The average of liabilities was $14 000 smaller than in some years of great prosperity The failure of brokers agents or brokers amounts to certainty averaged $ 3 408 each an increase of 66 per cent over 1890 manufacturing failures averaged $ 8 808 each an increase of 66 per cent and trading failures increased but 18 per cent and averaged only $9 006 each

Over one fifth of the increase in manufacturing and trading failures was in lumber manufacturing 170 per cent, dry goods 50 woolen manufacturing, 161 clothing trade, 0 shoe trade, 87 leather and shoe manufacture 167 grocery trade 33 machinery, 70 milling 114, furniture 90 printing 67 per cent In ten other branches the increase was moderate in amount In five with unchanged manufacturing and trading failures the liabilities were smaller than 1895

While banking failures have not ceased we apprehension about them has almost wholly subsided and no serious influence upon general trade is now expected Many sound concerns were doubtless caught by the epidemic and practically all important failures are traced to disregard of law and banking authorities at points somewhat distant

THE ABBIE NUTTER CASE.

Continuation of Hearing at Wiscasset in a Peculiar Affair

Wiscasset Me Jan. 8 At an adjourned hearing in the Abbie Nutter case for the appointment of a guardian, the court room was packed to its utmost capacity Miss Ourish Miss Nutter's cousin who brought the suit testified to going to the Dodge house with Dr Peaslee last fall and that Abbie was examined as to her physical and mental condition Dr Peaslee did not see her alone Miss Dodge being in the room As a result of the examination Dr Peaslee stated that he considered Miss Nutter incapable of managing her affairs

Miss Shortwell, a grand-daughter of Mrs Dodge who had visited at the Dodge house two weeks at a time, said that Abbie did not sit at the table while she was there

She used to go to her room by climbing a ladder sometimes and when she used the stairs she used to wear men's socks, as she supposed to save the carpet

Mrs Nutter, a cousin of Abbie, went to the Dodge house several times and was told that Abbie was not there He saw a looking out the door and told Mrs Dodge so, when Abbie was brought out and he had a conversation with her, but was not allowed to see her alone

Abbie Nutter was placed on the stand and examined to ascertain whether she was of sound mind. The impression is that a guardian will not be appointed.

The court adjourned till tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

DESTRUCTIVE WILSON BILL

Further Testimony of Disaster Wrought by Democratic Monstrosity

Washington Jan 8 At the request of Senator Sherman Mr Frye reported the Wilson bill as amended by the committee on finance with recommendation that it do not pass

The bill was then presented regardless of the fact that it contained provisions relating to foreign countries

The effects of the Wilson bill have been disastrous to the working and industrial classes, the wages have been forced to accept a reduction of from 25 to 28 per cent in wages soon after its passage Under the McKinley law their wages have gone about 87.1 per month for 52 weeks per year, while under the Wilson law the average was about 8 per month for 31 weeks

John W Morgan, of Tennessee, spoke for the protection of the state and national industries in a speech in which he showed that the laborers in a number of other states which had prior to the passage of the Wilson bill were $11.40 per week, under the Wilson bill their wages were reduced to $8 per week It was utterly impossible to compete with foreign labor

L A Stevenson of East Liverpool, Ohio, spoke for the potters of the West Their condition was much the same as that of the New Jersey workmen

Since the passage of the Wilson bill especially the Western potteries have been and they are only able to keep out a miserable existence If protection is not given to the potters of the United States the future of the Republican party

Representative Taylor of Ohio spoke for manufacturers and protection for What they wanted he said, was recognition by Congress of the other side, that wages paid the workmen here and abroad

Taylor said the only greenbacker he knew was a foreign born Democrat and not an American born citizen

Hidden in New York at price far below the cost here to decorate the land was becoming a great competitor of this land with labor costing but 18 or 20 cents per day If the condition continued, she would drive other countries with free trade protection

He exhibited specimens of flue ware made in New Jersey which he said was equal in texture and art to any in the world These goods are so fine that it required an American stamp to convince experts they were made in this country

Mr Taylor said there was a potters association which made rates It did not fix the output or prevent different parties from selling at whatever prices they desired He spoke of underselling by British, practiced by the importations of goods from abroad and asked for specific rates of duty on pottery ware If this is not possible, he desired compromise rates

Congressman Dingley called attention to the fact that in 1890 there had been an increase in the number of goods imported over 1893 and the revenue for the latter year was greater

A C Wheeler secretary of the New England Crockery Association advocated the retention of the present rates of duty He said he was an importer He could give no information regarding underselling but did not think it was practiced to any extent

Representative Sorg of Ohio, at the request of the Pottery Manufacturers Co, asked to have the duties used in making their factories placed on the free list The duties were not made in this country and the duty increased the cost of the article to the consumer

L C Partridge, of Rutland Vt advocated a duty on marble Bidwell a Democrat said it was a proper commodity upon which to raise a revenue A duty on the higher grades of foreign marble had the effect of reducing the price of the domestic product

D M Stewart, of Chattanooga, Tenn, a manufacturer of lime and gas advocated a specific duty of 30 cents per gross on importations of lime glass

The committee adjourned until tomorrow.

SATURDAY, JANUARY, 9, 1897.

The Shoe Factory.

The special committee of the City Government to consider the shoe factory appropriation reported at a special meeting called for the purpose Friday evening. It appears that the Boston concern has withdrawn its offer and the committee reported in favor of the construction of the factory on the city lot to be used by Messrs. Parker & Peakes. The committee further recommended an appropriation of $15,000 to erect the building, said sum to go into the taxes of next year.

Naturally the question of legality was discussed when the proposition came before the Board of Aldermen in the form of a resolve making the appropriation of $15,000. The Mayor was asked if it was competent for the City Government to appropriate money to be assessed in the taxes of the coming municipal year, and he declared that in his opinion it could be done. Some of the members differed with him on this point, as well as the main issue, namely, the right of the city to make any appropriation for the purpose. Alderman Glass took the only sensible course when he introduced an order referring the matter to the City Solicitor for his opinion. Mr. Glass is in perfect accord with other citizens as to the desirability of another factory, but when it comes to the expenditure of city funds for an unusual purpose he desires the opinion of the City's regularly elected legal adviser.

The order asking for said opinion was given a passage in both boards and of course nothing further will be done in the matter until it is known just what can be lawfully done. The Mayor's arrangement of the City Solicitor in his address before the joint convention was in poor taste and was not warranted by the facts. The city must do its business in accordance with law and the law was furnished by the City Solicitor at the request of the City Government.

Getting Light.

It is gratifying to note that the editorial department of the Boston Herald is now able to take a more reasonable view of the tariff question. The Herald says there can be no question that the business outlook is very much better than it was a year ago. The only questions to stand in the way of the "new conditions of confidence" are "the possibility of trouble over Cuba, and the uncertainty as to what an extra session of Congress may bring forth." Concerning the latter the Herald thinks "it is becoming "more and more shadowy," and as to the former it should be remembered that tariff revision in the direction of higher duties has never the disturbing influence on business which attends the change to lower duties." It concludes, therefore, that so far as the extra session is concerned could "action be confined to an increase of tariff rates the disturbance would be comparatively immaterial." This is a great improvement over much of the editorial discussion of the tariff that has appeared in the Herald. We congratulate our contemporary upon its new light.

Deputy Secretary of State.

There may be some man in the State with more friends than Hon. Sumner T. Chadbourne, but if so it would be difficult to name him. Both as Secretary of State and Deputy Secretary he has served the people with fidelity and zeal, always at his post and always ready to do anything in his power to aid any member of the Legislature who had business with his department. In the selection of State officers we doubt if any announcement will give as general satisfaction as that from Secretary of State Boyd to the effect that Mr. Chadbourne was restored to his old position as Deputy. In this decision Mr. Boyd has not only pleased the people, but has displayed a degree of wisdom that augurs well for the success of his administration. He will have associated with him a man entirely familiar with the work of the office, one who can be depended upon to discharge his duties in the most efficient manner, who will at all times be loyal to his chief and at the same time devoted to the interests of the State. Everyone will be delighted to see "Chad," as he is known to the most of his friends, back at his old desk once more.

Public Printer.

Editor Burleigh is receiving congratulations upon his election as the Public Printer of the State. The office is a new one so far as Maine is concerned. Heretofore the public printing has supposed to be given to the lowest bidder, but as it has been deemed essential that the work should be done in Augusta the bidding of outside firms was a matter of useless form. Under the new law the Legislature elects a State Printer who is held responsible for the prompt and economical work pertaining to the department. For this office Mr. C. B. Burleigh was unanimously nominated and elected. He is one of the proprietors and Managing Editor of the Kennebec Journal, is entirely familiar with the work of the department and we have no doubt will perform the duties in a manner satisfactory to all concerned.

The Election Law.

In his inaugural Governor Powers calls attention to our election law. As our readers know THE WHIG has never favored the present system of the voting, the features of which still continue to confuse the people, notwithstanding the fact that they have had sufficient time in which to become familiar with it. The Governor says:

"From some cause there is an alarmingly large number of defective ballots under our present election laws. From the best obtainable information I am convinced that nearly five thousand persons failed to vote correctly at the last September election and were consequently disfranchised.

"It stands to reason that any system of voting that disfranchises several thousand citizens in every State election is radically wrong. We were told that the people would soon master the details of the existing law and then there would be no trouble. But this is exactly what the people have not succeeded in doing. Men go to the polls in election after election, laboriously mark their ballot and think they have discharged the right of suffrage only to find later that they have simply thrown a worthless piece of paper in the ballot box by reason of some defect in marking.

"We agree with some of our contemporaries, however, in claiming that there should be no further attempts made at patching up the existing system. The law is bad enough as it is and any more changes will only add to the confusion. The sensible thing to do would be to repeal it and restore the old system. Either do that or let the law alone.

Dull Politically.

Senator Hill has not been saying much for some time past, but he now emerges from his obscurity long enough to remark that "Bryan is dead, beyond political resurrection." In this instance we think Senator Hill is a prophet. There was nothing to Bryan's candidacy. His nomination was an emotional one and afforded him a brief period of notoriety, but one sees evidence on every hand that even the silver wing of the party has had enough of him. He may continue for a short time to attract more or less attention, but before another convention comes he will have disappeared from the political field. It was thought that the fame of his Presidential canvass would make him a drawing card in the lecture field, but his tour was a dismal failure in every sense of the word. He has no ability as a lecturer and the people manifested no interest in him as soon as he ceased to be a Presidential possibility.

Circulating False Reports.

[Wash. Cor. Boston Journal.]

Congressman Boutelle is naturally indignant at an intimation published in a local paper that he has been "an avowed candidate" for the position of Secretary of the Navy in President McKinley's Cabinet, and that he is now engaged in a "lively struggle" for that or some other Cabinet position. If Mr. Boutelle has been "an avowed candidate" he has certainly succeeded in keeping it very quiet and in view of the fact that on his visit to Canton, immediately after election, he urged upon Mr. McKinley the eminent qualification of ex-Governor Dingley, of Maine, for the Treasury portfolio, it is difficult to see how he could be anxious for an appointment for himself. Mr. Boutelle, in conversation with the Journal correspondent, today, said:

"I have always held and freely stated my belief that no man should be a candidate or have his name pressed upon a President for a Cabinet position, as the relation between the Executive and his official advisers are of so delicate a character that he should be permitted to exercise an absolutely untrammeled choice in surrounding himself by the heads of his Administration, and I can conceive nothing more unseemly than for any person to take part in a struggle for such a position. It is therefore hardly necessary for me to say that I have never been in any sense a candidate for any position in the Cabinet, and that no human being has ever had an intimation of the kind, either directly or indirectly, from me."

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

Mr. Taylor, American Minister at Madrid, Consulted

Regarding Porto Rico Reforms as Practical for Cuba.

New York, Jan. 8.—A Washington dispatch to the Journal says: Secretary of State Olney has received a dispatch from the American minister, Hannis Taylor, in Madrid, announcing that the Spanish minister of foreign affairs, the Duke of Tetuan, had formally invited him to give an opinion of the Porto Rico reforms as a practical means of self-government for Cuba.

Mr. Taylor declares the scheme to be worthless. The Duke of Tetuan then asked Mr. Taylor his opinion of the greater reforms for Cuba promised in the preamble to the declaration of Porto Rico reforms. The American minister replied that the reforms were too vague to inspire any confidence in America. He urged the Spanish government to make a definite declaration of its purpose to grant full local self-government to Cuba. Coupled with complete reforms, such a basis for negotiating peace.

Secretary Olney was delighted at the news that Spain had at last officially recognized the competitive right of the American government in the settlement of the Cuban war.

He at once laid Minister Taylor's message before the President. After a conference with Mr. Cleveland, Secretary Olney called to Minister Taylor's aid, "Your opinion entirely approved" and instructing the minister to urge upon the Spanish government the necessity for prompt action.

The importance of this news can hardly be exaggerated. It is the first step towards the acceptance of American mediation.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Continuation of the Tariff Hearings.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The ways and means committee today heard reports of the earthenware, glassware, metal and stone industries. E. W. Walker, of Beaver Falls, Pa., the first speaker, advocated a change in the section of the present law relating to the importing in new classification with specific duties. On plates now paying 25 per cent. ad valorem he desired a duty of 2 cents per pound for four cents per pound and on the higher grades, now paying 40 per cent., he requested a duty of 20 cents per square foot for six cents per pound.

Most of the glass now imported were undervalued and were brought in under the 25 per cent. rate. The duties he asked would give the industry the required protection, yield more revenue and simplify the collections.

R. W. Leslie, of Philadelphia, advocated the retention of the present duty on China.

C. Arlington, of Xenia, Ohio, asked for all of the glass blown in Illinois the restoration of the McKinley rates on it.

E. M. Agard, of Steubenville, Ohio, a glass blower, said that the American workmen had been driven to the wall by the present tariff law, wages had been cut down, wages reduced and the hours of work increased. Under the McKinley law the industry prospered and at the same time the cost of bottles was reduced 25 per cent. Under present conditions it was getting more and more difficult for the American glass blowers to hold their own against the cheap labor of Europe. The wheel always was simply a fortune for him and injured no one.

The present duty had in no way benefited the consumer, and it had almost ruined the workmen. It was simply taking from those who had little to give to those who had much. The business of glass blowing was a hard one at the close, engaged in it at risks in the work is worse considered. He must unhesitatingly be for a schedule of specific duties. He had an interest in a glass house, but the sales and book records showed that the average age at death among glass blowers was 38 years.

The chief of the Wilson bill was not a matter of speculation. Where that came down, workmen had left the business, families were made long and many and walked the streets suffering from the necessities of life.

W. J. Smith, of Pittsburg, spoke for the workmen in flint and lime glass ware, the branch of the glass industry employing the greatest number of laborers, and having the largest capital. He asked for protection for the flint glass products in order that the industry might live and employment be given the idle workmen. Bohemia, with the cheapest labor, was the great competitor. Germany, where the wages were only one-third of what they were here, came next.

The flint industry needed stimulation now more than ever before and in his opinion the duties given should exceed those in the McKinley law. The exclusive glass ware which was being imported, laid down in this country at a price less than the labor on them cost. From 75 to 85 per cent. of all cost of making flint and lime glass was in the labor. He said that he knew nothing of natural gas in manufacture.

W. E. Doeringer, of New York, representing the cut glass manufacturers, asserted, said a high tariff on cut glass was necessary in order to compete successfully with the wares produced by cheap foreign labor. In the United States they were averaged $18 per week, in England $8, in Belgium $5, and in other countries even lower.

Foreign makers had resident agents in the United States, to whom goods were consigned, and they always manipulated the domestic makers. The foreign price of these goods could not be ascertained, but he was confident a system in the system of undervaluation was being practiced. To check this fraud specific instead of ad valorem duties necessary.

F. L. Bellis, of Philadelphia, a manufacturer of cylinder window glass and green and flint bottles, said the effect of the present law had been to allow wages, close factories and hamper merely the domestic makers. From 50 to 100 per cent. of the cost of this product represented foreign labor. American competition had reduced the price of the ware and between 1890 and 1896 when American competition had been diminished the cost had advanced about 33 per cent.

The importation of foreign glass was unnecessary, as the mills of this country were able to supply the home demand and would do so if the labor alone was given the requisite protection. The Belgian manufacturers, he understood, were deliberately to supply this market, and in order to do so, were willing to put their goods here even at a loss. Under these conditions he thought it reasonable and just as necessary to have rates not lower than those fixed in the McKinley law.

FLOODS IN MISSOURI.

One Man and Five Children Drowned.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 8.—A special from Plato, Mo., says that one man and five children were drowned in Texas county last Saturday as a result of the floods in that country. Thomas Wilson, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Kinney, and her five children, attempted to ford Prairie creek, which was very high. The team became unmanageable and soon lost. Reach foothold. The wagon weighed off with its load of human freight sank in the mud and the sideboards floating away, the whole party were thrown into the water.

Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Kinney succeeded in getting to the shore but the children were drowned. Three of the bodies were recovered Saturday. Daniel McGutherin was drowned the same way while trying to cross Mill Creek.

THE COLLEGE PRESIDENTS.

Resolutions Regarding Foot Ball Adopted.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—The meeting of the Western university presidents which has been in session here for the last two days ended last night. Before adjourning they adopted the following resolution on foot ball:

Whereas, The representatives of the state universities here assembled are of the opinion that inter-collegiate athletics in general and football in particular should be subjected to more careful and constant supervision, therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee consisting of President C. K. Adams of the University of Wisconsin, President A. S. Draper of Illinois and President J. H. Snow of Kansas, be appointed to report such rules as they deem wise to be recommended for the consideration of the several institutions with which they are connected.

The members of the body expressed themselves as favoring some modification but were opposed to any radical action.

EVIDENCE OF FOUL PLAY.

Dead Body of Man Found in Railroad Yard.

Port Jervis, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The dead body of Wm. Speidel, aged 21 years, was found this morning in the yard of the Erie railroad. The body was frozen stiff and bore evidence of foul play. A white handkerchief was stuffed in the mouth. The pockets of the young man's clothing had been turned inside out and a watch which he carried was missing.

AFFAIRS IN JAPAN.

The Old Problem of Capital and Labor Giving Trouble.

A Great Deal of Unrest and Some Disloyalty Among Chinese.

San Francisco, Jan. 8.—Advices from Yokohama by the steamer Doric have reached here. The trial of Mr. Carew for the murder of his wife by poisoning was set to commence in the Brunswick, Yokohama. The prisoner is defended by H. S. Williams, the ex-United States minister, who has had much to do in conducting the case. Belligerent feeling is said to be manifested by the Japanese in the case. The Old Question of Capital and Labor.

Trouble with the Chinese.

Statement of Foreign Relations.

AGAIN BROKEN OUT.

Sensational Reports of the Mining Troubles in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—The mining troubles in Illinois have broken out afresh in several places, but not to such an extent as yesterday, when, according to the reports, almost ten thousand men were idle. The city and all the evening. The miners, who numbered over 7,000, have been upon a strike against the new tariff weights for nearly two months and are in a starving condition. There seemed to be a feeling of unrest among the miners. The deputies are guarding the buildings of the company and guarding Manager Blake and his clerks, who are under cover. The deputies are guarding Blake's residence. It is feared that in the fight on the end of the week it is certain that loss of life will result.

BUSINESS MATTERS.

Banks of St Paul and Minneapolis Rapidly Reorganizing.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—The banks of St. Paul and Minneapolis continue to recover rapidly from the effect of the failure of the Bank of St. Paul. Two of the leading banks of St. Paul have been fully reorganized and the reorganization will be completed with all possible speed. The committee appointed by the directors of the bank of Minnesota to confer with the bank of Minnesota, with President Wm. Dawson, president, and Wm. Dawson, director of the bank, and obtained from detailed accounts of the method of the bank as they could furnish them. This committee represents the parties who had on deposit more than $100 and are willing to act together in the matter of reorganization. The committee expects to have a report to the depositors shortly which will eventually receive 70 cents on the dollar.

A serious question now facing the city and county is how to raise funds with which to carry on the current business. In round figures after the city and county funds are in the suspended banks $300,000 of which $217,000 belongs to the city and $83,000 to the county.

LABOR TOO HIGH.

Shoe Factory May Move from Stoneham.

Stoneham, Mass., Jan. 8.—A. J. Cummings & Co., one of the large shoe manufacturing firms of Stoneham, may be induced to locate in New Hampshire. This firm occupies the John Hill factory and employs the John Hill factory, which is the largest shoe manufacturing establishment in Stoneham, and employs about 550 people. Claim is made that the cost of labor is too high here and that other inducements are able to maintain the factory.

The high price of labor and the impossibility of obtaining better prices for shoes has made it very difficult for them to be continued to get the work done cheaper. This the firm says it is unable to do in Stoneham and asks for relief elsewhere.

An individual representing no one but himself has proposed to Mr. Mann that if he would expect to build a factory in Stoneham, but Mr. Mann has given no sign that he considers this an advantageous. A conference was today held in Boston between Mr. Mann, one of the executive committee and two delegates from the three labor organizations in the town.

Love is the keystone of a woman's life. Her fondest hopes rest upon the tender emotion; her highest pride is in her capacity to awaken the love which makes a happy wife; her noblest ambition is to become a loved and loving mother. Any weakness or disease which thus paralyzes her to fulfill the exalted function of motherhood is the saddest blight which can come upon a woman's life.

But there is no reason in nature why any hindrances or disarrangements of this kind exist. Nearly none of them are completely cured by natural and scientific means. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a powerful, healthy tonic and invigorating cordial, makes weak women strong, sick women well, and imparts to them the vigor and bloom of perfect health. It promotes the functions, cures irregularity, suppression, prolapsus, anteversion, retroversion, leucorrhœa, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, bearing-down pains, and all the kindred ailments which are so common to women. It is a powerful, invigorating cordial, and a most valuable tonic, imparting strength to the whole system and to the uterine organs in particular. It makes the weak strong and the sick well. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. For "Weak Women" it is the best medicine. Sick headache, dizziness, nervous prostration, general debility, sleeplessness, and kindred forms of female weakness are promptly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. One a dose. Sugar-coated, small, easy to take.

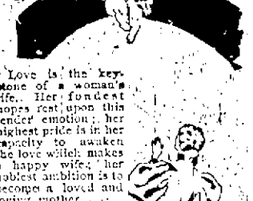
of Unrest and Some Da... y Among Children.



Love is the keystone of a woman's life. Her fondest hopes rest upon this tender emotion; her highest pride is in her capacity to awaken the love which makes a happy wife; her noblest ambition is to become a loved and loving mother.

Any weakness or disease which incapacitates her to fulfill the exalted function of motherhood is the saddest blight which can come upon a woman's life.

But there is no reason in nature why any hindrances or derangements of this kind should continue to exist. Ninety-nine times in a hundred they can be completely overcome in a perfectly natural and scientific way by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which gives healthy power and capacity to the special organs; reinforces the nerve-centres and makes natural, healthy motherhood possible, safe and comparatively easy.

It makes the coming of baby almost free from pain; gives strength and cheerfulness to the mother, and constitutional vigor to the child. It is the only medicine in the world devised for this one purpose by an educated physician, a skilled and experienced specialist in this particular field of practice.

"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes one mother, "word of good, and has undoubtedly saved my life." Address Mrs. Florence Hunter, of Conley, Logan Co., Ark. "I married four times and could get no medicine to do me any good. I completed to try your 'Favorite Prescription' and after taking several bottles of it I found myself about well. It is a fine gift, I think it is the best medicine in the world."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets: One is a laxative, two a mild cathartic.

MORE CURATIVE POWER

Is contained in a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other similar preparation. It costs the proprietor and manufacturer more. It costs the jobber more and it is worth more to the consumer. It has a record of cures unknown to any other preparation. It is the best to buy, because it is the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Gentle, reliable, sure.

EXPOSURE TO DISEASE

Does not necessarily mean the contraction of disease provided the system is in a vigorous condition, with the blood pure and all the organs in healthy action. When in such a condition contagion is readily resisted and the disease germs can find no lodgment. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to build up the system because it makes pure, rich blood, and pure blood is the basis of good health. In cold weather it is especially necessary to keep up the health tone because the body is subject to greater exposure and more liable to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the safeguard of health.

Order Sarsaparilla of your druggist.

FUNERAL OF GEN. WALKER.

Trinity Church Crowded to Its Utmost Capacity.

Six Units of Infantry of Tech-alry Dis Esse Duty.

Boston, Jan. 8.—To give a complete list of the distinguished persons who were present at the funeral services of Gen. Francis A. Walker at Trinity church today at noon would require mention of every man in the body of the house. Indeed, the large college, notwithstanding its great seating capacity, proved to be inadequate to accommodate the thousands who desired admittance, that the tickets were of necessity limited to those, who by reason of their official positions or intimate association with the great man whose memory they desired to honor, and claims this could not be overlooked.

Educational institutions, historic and economic associations, military organizations and civic bodies were compelled to limit their attendance to committees and delegates. Even the classes from the Mass. Institute of Technology were limited to one hundred members from each class and they filled the entire gallery.

Although in deference to the wishes of the family there was no display of a military funeral, 120 students of the institute, under the all action of Capt. Bigelow escorted the remains from the residence at 237 Beacon street past the public library and art museum up to St. James' avenue to the church with the senior students at their head.

The celebration then entered the west vestibule of the church, those composing the delegation marching by the church. Each student wore a green rosette. There were honorary pall bearers as follows:

Representing the commonwealth, Trod Wolcott; the city, Mayor Quincy; the National Academy of Sciences, Professor Hall; the corporation of the Institute of Technology, Hon. William Endicott, Jr.; the faculty of the institute, Ex-President John D. Runkle; executive committee of the corporation, Col. Thomas L. Livermore; Authors, Ex-President Merrill E. Gates, Amherst university, Dr. George J. Brush, director of the Sheffield Scientific school, Yale university, President Eliot, Harvard university; Boston City Club, John S. Lowell; Museum of Fine Arts, Col. Hall; Society of Civil Engineers, Historical Society, Professor Lincoln A. Green; Military, Historical Society of Massachusetts, John C. Ropes; St. Botolph club, Solon P. Lincoln.

The coffin was covered with flowers. As it was borne up the aisle on the shoulders of eight sergeants it was preceded by Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D. D., rector of the church, and his assistants, Rev. William Dewart, the former reading the solemn and impressive words of the service. The dust of the English church was followed throughout the services, the incidental singing by the combined choirs of Trinity church and the Second Unitarian church.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Donald at the grave where the body was taken to Mt. Auburn.

No flowers other than those mentioned above were brought into the church although there were many beautiful pieces sent to the house. The Carlisman decorations had indeed appeared in the walls and pillars of the church and the dark green effect produced was in perfect harmony with the solemn occasion. The seating of the great congregation was performed with all consideration by a corps of ushers and pall bearers, drawn from students of the institute of technology. During the funeral the City hall and the public library were closed to the public.

JAY GOULD'S ESTATE.

Suit Brought by Woman who Claims She was his First Wife.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 8.—Isaac N. Ingersoll, related his experiences of Jay Gould before Charles H. Bender as commissioner here yesterday, in the suit of Sarah Ann Jewell against the Jay Gould estate, for a share of his property on the ground that she was his first wife.

He first met Gould in Syracuse in the spring of 1853 and the following spring went with Gould as clerk to Gould's marriage to Sarah Ann and knew the woman. They were married by the Rev. Nathaniel Stanton. He knew the preacher and also Mary Ann Brown, who witnessed the marriage.

During the two or more years that Ingersoll worked with Gould the woman travelled with them, and everywhere passed as Gould's wife and was known as Sarah. The child was two weeks old the first time Ingersoll saw Gould or his wife. He came west afterward and knew both, but of the subsequent history.

John D. Osborn, who testified to have seen Gould and the woman, who claims she was his wife but had no knowledge of their marriage or the birth of the child.

HORRIBLE BRUTALITY.

An Aged Couple Terribly Tortured by Robbers.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Christopher Warfelburg, an aged German farmer and his wife, who live on a farm near Lake Du Page county, at our 35 miles from this city, were tortured by robbers on Tuesday night and yesterday lying. The couple were found at their home late on Wednesday morning, gagged and with their feet frozen in a pool of snow.

The Warfelburg farm is remote from the public highway and it was only by the chance call of a neighbor that the condition of the old couple was discovered. Mr. Warfelburg was revived sufficiently to tell his story.

Two strangers, he said, giving their names as Clark and Hendricks and their residence as Chicago, called at the house on Tuesday night and ask if for a night's lodging, offering payment. They were accommodated and retired. At midnight they woke the old man and woman and ordered them to get up. They were compelled to dress and then the men produced a rope and tied the old man to the bed, while the other ransacked the house, the women being left in the room. The men were armed with revolvers and demanded to know the whereabouts of a large sum of money supposed to be concealed about the premises.

The old couple protested that they had no money. Mrs. Warfelburg was then seized and bound and her feet thrust into a pail filled with snow. Her suffering and her husband's pleadings failed to move the robbers, who present threatened the aged man in a similar manner. After ransacking the house the strangers departed with $4, leaving their victims to suffer.

MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

Were Trying New Explosive for Use in Cuban War.

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 8.—The meaning of the experiments with explosives for the last few days along the Maine and New Hampshire coasts has been explained by the electrician who is in charge of that part of the work. He returned to Lynn this morning with good news for his service in his pocket.

According to him, Cuba was employed by a Cuban agent, Senor Palma, to do the electrical work and explain how to perform it to him and to two others. Orders came to the men to start for their native and with explosives and kites for use against the Spanish forces. They have a secret explosive, a compound resembling nitroglycerine, made by one Robinson, a chemist of Third avenue, New York. Robinson has been with the party during the experiment.

The Cubans were highly pleased with the result.

THE ARBUCKLE MURDER.

Confession of a Young Man in Jail at Louisville.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—It is believed that Frederick Bennett, a prisoner in the county jail at Louisville, who yesterday confessed to participation in the murder of Frank P. Arbuck in New York on Nov. 10, naming Dave Edmunds, a notorious of Chicago, as his accomplice, is the son of Joseph Baume of the firm of H. Bennett & Co., pawn brokers, No. 169 Clark street. This is based according to a statement made by Mr. Bennett last night to a wayward young man whom his family has disowned and with whom they had no communication.

"My son was in New York one year ago," said Mr. Baume last night, "and a short time ago he was in Louisville. I never heard of his being connected with a theatrical company. The last I knew of him he was selling typewriters. My son went by the name of Newman."

KISSED CHILDREN GOOD BYE

And then Disappeared with her Husband's Gold.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 8.—Jerry Lisko, a Hungarian, found his home at 966 East Main street dark when he returned home from work last night. His five small children were crying and he was tired disappointed. They said their mother had kissed them good bye and told them she would never see them again. Lisko, deeper discovered that his wife had left and that the money he had been saving from the hands had been taken from the house. Lisko has gone to the police station to know the whereabouts of a large sum of money supposed to become well about the premises.

The old couple protested that they had no money. Mrs. Warfelburg was then seized and bound and her feet thrust into a pail filled with snow. Her suffering and her husband's pleadings failed to move the robbers, who present threatened the aged man in a similar manner. After ransacking the house the strangers departed with $4, leaving their victims to suffer.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Lady Selina Scott Sentenced to Eight Months' Imprisonment.

Installation Ceremonies of the Archbishop of Canterbury Interrupted by a Crank.

London, Jan. 8.—The Old Bailey court room was crowded this morning when Lady Selina Scott, John Cockerton and Wm. Aylott, who yesterday pleaded guilty of having criminally libelled Earl Russell, Lady Scott's son-in-law, were brought up for sentence. Lady Scott entered the court room accompanied by her daughter, Countess Russell.

When the prisoners were called to the bar for sentence Mr. John Lawson Walton, M. P., solicitor for Lady Scott, addressed the court in behalf of his client saying that her ladyship pledged herself not to republish any of the libels she had uttered against the Earl Russell. Sir Edward Hall, for Cockerton and Aylott, said that their clients did not withdraw a single word they had said or any statement they had made in regard concerning Earl Russell, having told nothing but the truth in behalf of him.

Lady Scott in reply to the usual question from the court as to what she had to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon her, said that she was perfectly willing to make any punishment that the learned judge might see fit to inflict. All that she had done, she said, was in defiance. The darling daughter she had at stake she would suffer anything rather than lose her.

The judge then announced the prisoners speaking for half an hour. He was perfectly disinterested in Lady Scott, who unfortunately became associated with the other, during of the court and exclaimed:

"For goodness sake, let me have my sentence. I am only a woman."

The judge then pronounced sentence upon the prisoners, condemning each of them to eight months' imprisonment without hard labor. Lady Scott, on account of her delicate health, will be treated as a first class misdemeanant. Late Cockerton and Aylott will be treated as ordinary prisoners.

As Lady Scott was leaving the prisoners dock after the judge had sentenced her she turned and said: "Every word I have spoken against my daughter's husband is true."

Interrupted by a Crank.

London, Jan. 8.—The Rt. Hon. and Most Rev. Frederick Temple, D. D., the recently appointed archbishop of Canterbury and primate of all England, was enthroned in the cathedral at Canterbury today in the presence of 12 bishops, 350 clergymen and a huge gathering of the laity. As the procession entered the cathedral an unmentionable ritualistic named Greenwood cried out: "Both the person by and the archbishop are frauds! Where is Bishop Bright? Greenwood then he earth and slid underneath until he was seized by a policeman and locked up. The operations in the cathedral were delayed for a few minutes while the police were being called in. The installation was proceeded with and the archbishop was enthroned in the chair of St. Augustine. After the enthronement was present by the vicar general to the chapter of the ordinary to the treasury, the procession was formed, headed by the Dean and the high seneschal, the military, municipal and county representatives following.

To the right of the archbishop was the Rev. T. W. Farrar, dean of Canterbury, and the vicar general walked in his left. The arch bishop and the deans were followed by the eight canonries of the archdeaconries and the chapter of the cathedral.

The company began by the singing of the Hallelujah chorus by the choir, the congregation joining in the singing. The mandate for the enthronement was then handed to the archbishop by the vicar-general.

The mandate was read aloud by a notary, public and the archbishop was in accordance with the mandate, escorted to the throne by the archdeacon of the Canterbury Benjamin Smith. The archbishop took his seat upon the arch, Episcopal throne, and the archdeacon pronounced him duly installed.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 8.—Joseph Boulanger, a half breed of Elgin, Kas., announces that he will immediately bring suit to recover forty acres of land in the heart of Kansas City, now worth between $40,000,000 and $60,000,000. The land was bought by the government in 1852 from Colonel Montardeau, a French trader, who was the grandfather of the present claimant. CRUISER PHILADELPHIA.

Details of the Fire in Her Coal Bunkers.

San Francisco, Jan. 8.—A letter written by one of the crew of the cruiser Philadelphia, which has been received here, gives the details of the fire in the cruiser's bunkers on the morning of her arrival at Callao, Peru. The crew was busy scrubbing down the decks when an alarm of fire was sounded. The crew soon discovered the whereabouts of the fire but as the ship rapidly filled with smoke, had considerable difficulty playing water on the blazing coal. Notwithstanding that all the water possible was used, said the writer of the letter, the plates in the magazine room became so heated that an order to abandon the ship, we did not have surprised me. After three hours of hard work the flames were extinguished in the coal bunkers, but the fire broke out in an adjoining room from the heated plates. The crew was again put to work and in half an hour had the fire out. The hatch plates were cooled by running streams of water over them, and the excitement ended.

San Francisco, Jan. 8.—The Chinese consul general has been advised that the new Chinese minister to the United States will arrive in San Francisco early in March. The new minister is a native of Sam Yup and comes from the same district of China of which the participants in the Chinatown troubles are natives. This fact is thought will aid him in adjusting the local difficulties. After accomplishing this work he will proceed to Washington.

Telegraphic Notes.

A Boston despatch says: It was discovered Thursday that Jesse Pomeroy, the boy fiend and murderer, had nearly succeeded in digging through the prison walls in contemplation of escape. He had been confined in the state prison of Massachusetts twenty-two years, having been sentenced when he was 15. He has always been closely watched as he is considered the most dangerous prisoner in the institution. The officials cannot imagine how he was enabled to carry his operations so far, as, in fact, he did. Few facts in regard to the case can be learned from prison officials.

Unofficial advices received Jan. 5 say United States Minister Willis, whose condition was reported as hopeless a few days ago, is greatly improved and his complete recovery is now looked for.

WILD MULES IN MONTANA.

The Origin of Strange Herds in the Bitter Root Valley.

Almost any one, any town, herds in Montana. If he has not the $5, $10, $20 or $50 necessary to pay for the blood line culture with which any particular ranch may be endowed, he may, if he has the necessary agility, go out on the range and take one, for there is plenty that don't belong to any one else.

Since the price on horses fell below the paying point, many ranchmen have neglected branding their stock or keeping any track of it, and, in fact, there have been a good many local efforts made by the owners themselves to exterminate or drive the horses off the immediate ranges that there might be better grass for cattle and sheep. It is a very repulsive business, to a Western man more especially than any one else, to shoot a horse, and a man who is capable of it is regarded with rather more circumspection than one who has killed his man.

So, being protected by a spark of sentiment, the herds of wild or maverick horses are really increasing, and a right royal breed of animals they are. When the business was good, a few years back, the Montana breeders were the most energetic and progressive of any in the West. They bought sires of thoroughbred and trotting blood in Kentucky and turned them loose with their herds.

Others who desired size rather than endurance went to Illinois and Canada and purchased great Norman and Percheron stallions. While the prices ruled high the two classes were bred separately, but of late years they have been allowed to run into one uniform and homogeneous herd. The new generation of young horses, and strong-boned, with power and endurance that are strikingly reminiscent of a greyhound.

If conditions were to remain the same for say a period of thirty years longer, without any new admixture of blood it is reasonable to expect that these herds would gradually assume a uniform type of size, shape and color to a degree not a common one is noticed in any other wild animals.

"Did you ever hear of the wild mules of the Bitter Root Mountains?" asked a prospector the other day in Helena. "I had never heard of them, and the suggestion seemed a little bit woolly and Western, as mules, being without hope of posterity, have a very uncertain tenure of existence as a species, and I may have expressed scepticism.

"But they are there, for I have seen them," he continued. "I have seen hundreds of them—little, gray fellows, often about the color of buffalo grass, and they are some wilder than an antelope. They are more too small and vicious to be worth herding with, even if it were possible to catch them. They would like to associate with the horses, but the stallions drive them off and they move to herd by themselves. As the stockmen despise them they are kept pretty well-scared back into the mountains."

"Where did they come from and how is they kept up?"

"Well, some of their ancestors and progenitors are still with them—Mexican burros, as wild as the little mules themselves. It began in 1870, when Wilson lost his drove of burros on the St. Mary fork of the Bitter Root.

"He brought a pack train of burros all the way from Southern Colorado or New Mexico. It was at a time of one of the earliest discoveries of gold in the Coeur d'Alene Mountains, and when Wilson got the reports of the discovery and the rush he conceived the idea that he could make big money packing for the miners.

"Wilson had about forty burros and he hired another man, and well also is the season they started northward. They made their way slowly through Colorado and Wyoming into Montana, and about December 1, after a pretty hard trip, they reached the Missouri River, where they got the first reliable news about the mines. They ascertained that the real value of the discoveries had been greatly exaggerated, and that there was absolutely no demand for a pack train of any description.

"Then Wilson concluded to return to Colorado. They started southward and got as far as the St. Mary's when they were overtaken by a blizzard which continued several days. After the storm was over and they went to round up their donkeys they were able to find but three or four in a whole day's search.

"What's the use of trying to get back to Colorado?" asked Wilson. "These burros can probably pull through the winter here as well as anywhere, and when spring comes they will be worth something to Montana."

"Then Wilson and his man took the few animals they had left and made the way to Helena."

"Did he never try to round up his burros again?"

"I don't know about that, but, anyway he never got them, and that accounts for the little wild mules of

The Story of Puritana.

Prof. Dixi Crosby, M. D., LL. D., who for thirty-two years was at the head of Dartmouth Medical College, belonged to the famous Crosby family of physicians, which for several generations has furnished more distinguished medical men than any other family in America. His father was Dr. Alva Crosby, of Dartmouth, who procured the charter of the State medical society, of which he was for thirty years a conspicuous member; one brother, Dr. Josiah Crosby, invented the invalid bed and the method of making extensions of fractured limbs by adhesive strips; another brother, Dr. Thos. B. Crosby, was chief surgeon in Columbian College Hospital during the war, and later professor of animal and vegetable physiology at Dartmouth College; while Dr. Dixi Crosby himself was the inventor and discoverer of various important improvements in medicine and surgery, including a new and unique mode of reducing metacarpophalangeal dislocation, opening of abscess at hip-joint, etc., etc.

At the early age of twenty-four his extraordinary skill and success in overcoming disease had already attracted the attention of medical men throughout the world, and won for him the highest honors. His greatest achievement was the discovery of an original method for perfecting and compounding in permanent form what has become known as his "prize formula," and which, under the name of Puritana, is legally protected.

The foundation of this remarkable medical discovery consists of simple New England roots and herbs, and the original family recipe for it has descended to the long line of Crosby physicians from their Puritan ancestors. Its peculiar vegetable composition rendered it necessary to brew it whenever needed in the early days of its history, and after the scattering of the Puritan families to remote localities, where the necessary ingredients were not to be found, many attempts were made to put it up in permanent form, all of which failed until Dr. Dixi Crosby discovered means and methods, the result of which is: Nature's Cure compounded in the laboratory of Common Sense.

It cures from head to foot.

WILT ON VENTILATION IN 1896.

"Forty years ago there were very, but few, men in this country who had united for the mutual protection of those dependent upon their earnings, and yet, within the last quarter of a century, the sum paid to the widows by men thus united exceeds $2,000,000, both such sum paid in less than one month's time, furnishes startling evidence of the necessity of insurance, and of the fact that no man can afford to neglect himself. It also proves most conclusively that the insurance has not meant insurance approval wherever it has been submitted to the people.

Mr. H. G. Flanders, of East Hampden, has completed the re-drawing of the plans showing the elevation of the famous fortifications Fort William Henry at Pemaquid. This fort was built in 1692 by Sir William Phipps and was destroyed four years later by a land force of Indians under Chesaina and three French warships, in consequence of De Thorville. A year or two ago Mayor James F. Baxter, of Portland, while on a European tour secured a plan of the fort in England. The original was executed by Col. Romer, a distinguished engineer, for Governor Dudley, and accomplished in 1692. Mr. Flanders says that there was a settlement at Rome and had under the Pemaquid office at Plymouth. The walls of the fort were 30 feet high and there was a stone or cut water in front. Mr. Flanders will publish a map of the place in the Boston Transcript, and he intends to make an application to the Maine Historical society to have the fort and the old settlement marked by some permanent memorial.

SHOE FACTORY PROJECT.

Discussed at Special City Government Meeting.

An Inquiry Is Concern Withdraws Entirely From Negotiations.

Committee Recommended Proposition Be Dealt With Parker & Peakes.

Opinion of City Solicitor Is Had on Legality of Appropriation

For Erecting of Building by City to be Used as a Shoe Factory.

A special meeting of the City Government was held last evening to hear the report of the committee on the shoe factory matter and to take what action was deemed advisable. A joint convention was held and Mayor Beal read the report of the committee, which was a lengthy document.

It stated that the committee had given a hearing on December 20th to President C. H. Jones, of the Commonweal Shoe & Leather Company, of Boston, and gave the proposition of that company, which is familiar to our citizens. The report then told of the hearing given Parker & Peakes and their proposition, which has also been given in the Bangor press.

The report went on to state that the committee had concluded to recommend favorable consideration the proposition of Parker & Peakes. In coming to the committee tried to look with equity upon both propositions and there are favorable things to be said of both, said the report. The committee believed that everything else being equal their duty was to look with favor upon the gentlemen, who, by their own exertions, prudent and careful management of their business throughout all these hard times have been able to build up a business that pays out to employes over $3,000 a week.

The committee recommended the City Government to order the construction of substantially such a building, upon the lot owned by the city situated upon the line of the Hampden road and to appropriate $15,000 for that purpose to be used from time to time as needed.

The report stated that since arriving at the above conclusions the committee had received letters from the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Company, which were given in full.

Under date of December 31st, President Jones of the Commonwealth Shoe & Leather Company wrote to Mayor Beal that he and Mr. Reed had gone over the facts ascertained in Bangor and it seemed to them that as there would necessarily be considerable delay in arriving at a definite conclusion and if the decision should be adverse to their proposition it would then be too late to accept other propositions, it seemed best to them to withdraw their proposition.

Under date of December 31st, Mayor Beal replied to President Jones stating surprise and that he did not believe President Jones meant to break off the negotiations quite so arbitrarily. He asked President Jones to give the committee a few days to present the case to the City Government.

The next morning the committee received the following telegram:

Whitman, Mass., Jan. 2, 1897.
To Hon. F. O. Beal, Bangor:
We must insist on our withdrawal. Will write you fully.
Commonwealth Shoe & Leather Co.

A letter from the company followed under date of January 2d. The letter contained the following:

You will remember that you and the other members of the committee stated in answer to my inquiry that it was impossible to predict with any certainty the action of the City Council, that on some political, or rather municipal matters, they were against you and in a majority.

The statement I noticed in the morning paper (that the city had reached its debt limit) taken in connection with the inquiry of Mr. Blanding as to where the money was to come from if appropriated, together with the fact that an appropriation by the city for such a purpose is of questionable legality and might be contested even after the order had been passed, seemed to Mr. Reed and myself certain to leave the matter unsettled and open to attack for a long time even if the committee and City Government should take the most favorable view of it. There seemed to be no good reason for us to expose our company to this uncertainty as several propositions equally favorable had been received from cities where the money necessary for the purpose had been raised by subscription and the whole transaction could be closed in a moment by merely signing the papers.

We further ascertained that the proposed site, if built upon in the manner you suggested would subject us to an excessive insurance rate on account of the exposure from the cash factory, and I do not see how the lot could be utilized to advantage without great expense for grading.

The report is signed by C. O. Leal, F. A. Porter, W. H. Gorham and E. M. Blanding.

After reading the report the mayor said that he considered President Jones' reasons merely a subterfuge and he thought that President Jones had found a chance to close with a better offer. He thought it a lame excuse. The mayor said he did not think there would be any legal complications, as, first, the city had a right to build on its own land and second, he did not think that 10 men could be found in Bangor who would go to court to prevent the construction of such a building.

Upon the suggestion of Alderman Wescott Mr. G. W. Parker, of Parker & Peakes, was called upon and answered a number of questions asked by the members of the City Council. He said that if they had a new factory upon the proposed lot they would employ four or five hundred additional hands; that they could not give a guarantee as to the amount of work, but would run as much as possible; that a location on the proposed lot would save much trucking, their trucking bill now being $1,000; that from one-third to one-half their present goods are like those of the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Company, which is a sharp competitor against them; that if the building were constructed it would be their intention to put in $15,000 or $20,000 worth of machinery.

The Mayor made some remarks regarding the lease to the B. & A. railroad giving the road an entrance to the city and said that nobody expected the railroad company would enter Bangor; that the only way to the burying ground lot was straight up the Hampden road and the Maine Central controlled the side water. The Mayor then read the following statement upon

When Can the City Make a Legal Contract?

I am aware that for me to attempt to discuss this subject in the presence of so much legal talent as we have here in Bangor would seem as presumptuous and as much will be called arrogance, but in the position which I have been so long one of prominence I propose to venture my opinion and the reasons therefor, and if I am wrong I shall be glad to be set right, and if I am right I shall be glad to have my opinion confirmed by other lawyers.

I propose to consider my opinion as set forth in the Revised Statutes of Maine, chapter 1, section 3, paragraph 3, which reads as follows: "The word 'shall' is to be construed as mandatory and the word 'may' as permissive, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the context or clearly shown to be not the intention of the legislature."

Now, I submit that the word "may" in the charter of Bangor, which reads as follows: "The City Government may make all such ordinances, orders, rules and regulations, not repugnant to this charter or to the laws of the State of Maine, as they shall deem necessary for the government of said city," is not inconsistent with the context, and it is not shown to be not the intention of the legislature that it should be construed as mandatory, and therefore it is permissive, and the City Government may make such ordinances, orders, rules and regulations, not repugnant to the charter or to the laws of the State of Maine, as they shall deem necessary for the government of said city
